

Did You Know

By Pat J. Kirwin

THAT 41 years ago the citizens of Circleville voted a $50,000 bond issue to bring new industries to the city and the three companies secured lasted but a short time.

At the general election held here April 7, 1891, 1,218 votes were registered in favor of the proposition to issue bonds, while only 190 were cast in the negative. On April 21, 1891, Probate Judge J. P. Winstead appointed the following to serve as members of the Board of Control: Joseph P. Smith, S. B. Evans, Thomas K. Brunner, W. J. Weaver, George W. Bauder and Amos Beach.

Communications were received from a number of companies, which wished to secure some of the benefits of the bond issue and locate their plants at Circleville. A promoter came and put several propositions before the Board of Control. The best enterprise at that time appears to have been the Isaac Half Lounge Co., of Marysville, with which concern negotiations were entered into.

A $17,000 issue of bonds was ordered, and according to the agreement, $5,000 was paid the company, which proceeded to erect its building. Later the machinery was put in and the balance of the $17,000 was paid the company according to the contract. The company soon failed, owing to its cramped condition caused by the liquidation arising at Marysville. The former lounge factory is now used by John C. Goeller as a broom factory.

An issue of $15,000 of bonds was ordered and the proceeds paid to the Circleville Glass Co., which was to be operated by Leopold Mamburg, F. C. Fuller and V. H. Ketchum of Toledo, who were to locate, equip and fully operate a sheet glass plant of 10-pot capacity. The glass factory ran for only a short period. The building was afterward dismantled.

The Benner Furniture Co. of Union City, Indiana, was given the proceeds from the sale of $18,000 of bonds and the erection of its building in the south part of the city was never completed by this company, which fell into difficulties at Union City through suits for claims brought against it. By subsequent transfers, the unfinished building came into the possession of the Winor Canning Co., and it was rebuilt and is now included in the plant of the canning company.

That the derivation of nicknames of Circleville men is interesting. Our first subject is Alvin E. "Kitty" Fissell of E. Mound-st. Mr. Fissell first went to work at the store here operated as a young boy and the name of his boss was Caddy (Catty) Miller. The youthful member of the concern, he came to be known as "Kitty."

THAT the names of three Ohio counties were derived as follows:

Guernsey-co—Among the immigrants that flocked to Ohio in the early days was a band of pioneers from the Guernsey Islands in the English Channel. They gave the name of their old home to their new one.

Mercer-co—Among the heroes of the revolution was Gen. Mercer. As a young man he was with Washington at Braddock's defeat and also at a number of other important battles. His name was still a household word when Mercer-co was established in 1820.

Wood-co—A distinguished engineer with Gen. William Henry Harrison in the War of 1812 was one Col. Eleazer Wood, for whom Wood-co was named.

That the writer is sincerely appreciative for all past contributions to this column.

'BONUS ARMY' VISITS CITY

A bonus army, 50 or 60 strong, arrived in this city at 12:45 p. m. today enroute to Washington, D. C. from California. Columbus will be visited after

There are a number of women in the group which is traveling in automobiles.

WASHINGTON, July 16—The leader of the main body of the bonus expeditionary force—Walter W. Waters of Portland, Oregon—was placed under "technical arrest" at the capitol today. Superintendent of City Police Pheasant D. Glassford singled out Waters when he appeared to lead his veterans in a final demonstration protesting against Congress' adjournment without providing relief for the veterans.

Glassford took charge of Waters when the augmented "death marchers" who have been mulling around the capitol for several days and nights surged across the plaza toward the main entrance.

TAX REPORTED SLIGHTLY LESS

Expect Deadline of July 20 To Be Extended; Four Per Cent Lower Reported.

Tax collections in Pickaway-co at the present time are only four per cent less than at the same time last year, according to information received from T. D. Krinn, deputy auditor.

At the opening of business at the county treasurer's office Friday morning, $101,533.89 had been paid by taxpayers.

On July 15 last year $151,128.55 had been paid. This represents a $50,000 shortage but it is learned from Mr. Krinn that the real estate and utilities duplicate is 30 per cent less than the abstract of last year, and naturally a shortage in collections of the general tax would result.

The new classified tax is also blamed for the shortage. Last year the personal tax was included with the above funds, but is collected in a separate fund this year. The reapportionment of real estate in the county also has caused a decrease in taxes.

According to Mr. Krinn the taxpayers of the county will pay $266,243.63 less in 1932 than was paid in 1931. This represents a 25 per cent reduction.

WHITE'S AIDE DENIES CHARGE

S. P. Dunkle, Well Known Here, Claims $30,000 Bribe Report Is Unfounded.

COLUMBUS, July 16—A personal investigation will be made by Governor George White into the charges of a Michigan assistant prosecutor that $30,000 "changed hands" when Ohio refused to extradite James L. White, an alleged murderer from Toledo to Detroit recently.

COLUMBUS, July 16—Scandal gossip over Ohio's state house today as S. P. Dunkle, executive secretary to Governor George White, heatedly denied charges by an assistant Michigan prosecutor that a $30,000 bribe was paid recently to influence a decision in an extradition hearing.

Governor White backed up his secretary in branding as "ridiculous" and "thoroughly irresponsible" the charge by Assistant Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea of Detroit that $30,000 was "used" in the case of James L. White, who was wanted in Michigan for murder.

DEFENDS HIMSELF Dunkle, the "clerk" whom McCrea accused of mishandling the case, defended himself.

GUARDSMEN ARE GUNS' TARGETS

ATHENS, July 16—Gun play was brought into action again in the strike district Hocking valley coal fields last night and early today.

On three different occasions, according to official reports today, national guardsmen encamped near the No. 25 mine of the Manhattan Coal Co. at Channery, near here, were fired upon. Twice the militia answered the fire but in a far as could be determined no one was injured in the fray.

Several Hurt At Movie Opening

HOLLYWOOD, July 16—Six persons were injured as several thousand movie fans rioted in front of Grauman's Chinese theater to pay tribute to Norma Shearer and other film stars at the world premiere of the picture "Strange Interlude," police reported today.

Because of the crowd, Miss Shearer did not arrive at the theater until early today when she, Clark Gable, Ralph Morgan and other stars were introduced from the stage.

Police aided film celebrities and others battle their way through the crowds into the theater.

The injured persons were sent to their homes after treatment at police hospitals.

Inability of persons with tickets to get inside the theater delayed the start of the program until after 10 p. m.

New Bonus Plea for Congress

Undismayed by previous rebuffs, war veterans in the capital are still trying to make Congress see eye to eye with them in regard to payment of the soldiers' bonus certificates. Here is the latest delegation to present a petition for payment. Left to right are: Urbain Ledoux, of New York, more popularly known as "Mr. Zero," noted welfare worker; Rep. Keller of Illinois, R. W. Robertson, commander of the California bonus marchers, and Rep. Patman, sponsor of the bill advocating payment of the bonus.

Revised Relief Bill Names Circleville For Post Office Although Congress Has Not Appropriated Money and Is Not Expected To Do So.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 16—A new postoffice for Circleville is provided for in the revised relief bill but there still is a question as to whether any money will be available and if made available whether the previously allocated sum of $95,000 will be cut ten per cent in the interest of economy.

The revised relief bill carries the approval of President Hoover and was adopted after the President vetoed the original relief bill sponsored by Speaker Garner.

Whether work begins this year on the Circleville postoffice will be decided if congress, before ending its sessions, adopts an amendment appropriating money for it. Then the comptroller general will be called upon by the treasury to decide if Circleville shall be among those cities which are to suffer a ten percent slash in the original allocation. If there is a slash Circleville will receive only $85,500 as a starter.

Should this amount be insufficient to complete the postoffice the treasury would ask later congress to give additional money. There is no money at all available now for Circleville. The postoffice there is simply in the status of having been approved by congress and the president while the treasury estimates $95,000 would build a post-office there.

MAYOR BANS SHOW

There will be no more carnivals or side-shows in Circleville. Such was decreed Saturday by Mayor B. T. Hedges when he refused to permit W. S. Curl of London, to set up a side-show on E. Franklin-st.

"These shows often result in trouble and I believe it a good policy to keep them away," the mayor said.

From now on, permission will be refused to these show people.

BERTIE PALM HELD

Albert "Bertie" Palm of E. Main-st. was in the city jail Saturday, awaiting hearing before Mayor B. T. Hedges following his arrest at 1:45 a. m. Saturday.

He was arrested at his home by Officers Fitzpatrick and McNamany.

Local Men Become Bull Fighters, Capture Animal

Clarence Wolf, Charles Smith and Floyd Dunlap with more than a dozen such and residents, became toreros during enough Friday evening to catch a bull and return to its proper place in a barn.

But before the capture animal was captured a chase through streets, yards and fields resulted. As a result of the chase Mr. Smith once assumed the role of aviator when the bull connected with him driving the local butcher through the air. He was unharmed however.

The bull was finally captured after it had been lassoed. At one time it jumped over a fence and at another time it tried a bicycle in its mad effort to evade capture.

The three men captured the bull from a Chillicothe stable when the bull and two men escaped from Mr. Wolf's barnyard. The cows were easily captured.

OLYMPIC TOUR DEADLINE IS 6; YOUTHS ACTIVE

Ballot Box Closes at 6 p. m. With Judges Ready to Count Many Coupons

FEW HOURS REMAIN

Greenlee and Grant Contesting for First

When this article is read the deadline of the Olympic tour contest will be rapidly nearing. At 6 p. m. today the vote box will be locked and taken to the business office of The Herald where judges Ed. Wallace, Walter Nelson and T. O. Gilliland will make the final count.

From the number of coupons that were being placed in the ballot box in the office throughout the day it is expected the task of the judges will run far into the night. The result of the contest will not be announced until Monday's issue of The Herald.

HAVE ABOUT TIME

Friends of contestants still have time to make purchases and to pay on accounts, ask for coupons and place them in the ballot box BEFORE 6 P. M. because any coupon brought to The Herald office after that time will be ignored. Contestants were working hard Saturday trying to get their friends to make purchases and pay on account.

As it has been since the contest started two youths, Robert Greenlee and Fred Grant, are battling for first honors with the others contestants. Not conceded much chance to take the first honor, Greenlee has been running in first but Grant has been second and with a rush may become the other's margin. Gene Bach has been running a good third with James Henderson in fourth and Billy Kellstadt in fifth. Since there are three prizes, Bach, Henderson and Kellstadt are endeavoring to capture the third honor.

SOLONS HOPE TO ADJOURN

Seven and Half Months Session Expected To Come To End This Evening.

WASHINGTON, July 16—In an atmosphere surcharged with excitement over the impending national political campaign, Congressional leaders hoped to adjourn Congress by tonight. The session started seven and a half months ago.

Two major pieces of legislation as well as many miscellaneous matters remained to be disposed of as both houses were called into session early today to clear the decks.

The $2,122,000,000 jobless relief bill was before the senate for approval of the conference report. The House has already adopted the report and President Hoover's signature was assured.

OLYMPIC GAMES TOURS CONTEST ENDS TODAY AT 6 P. M.

Get the votes and see that they are deposited in box at The Herald office before 6 p. m. Today!

OLYMPIC QUALIFIER FINALS HELD TODAY

PALO ALTO, Cal., July 16.—More than 40,000 customers at $1.65 per head are expected at the Stanford stadium, this afternoon when the Olympic finals will be contested to a frenzied finale.

The headline attraction—Bill Carr of Pennsylvania, versus Ben Eastman, of Stanford at 400 meters—which was expected to be a 10-star extra special thriller—perhaps will result in a romp for Carr, with Eastman lucky to finish third.

The Stanford wonder-man indicated in the heat he ran Friday that he is humped out. The flash and fire has gone from him; too many races at a blistering pace, too many wholly unnecessary workouts have dulled his blazing speed; and taken their toll in stamina.

But other events will substitute spectacularly for what was expected in the 400. The 100 meter, the 200 meter, the 110 meter hurdles and the 1500 meter should provide high drama and thrilling deeds.

NONE A STANDOUT

So close is the matching of the men in the 100 meters that none is a standout. Eddie Tolan turned in a sensational 10.4 Friday, Emmett Toppino won with ease. Frank Wykoff took it easy back of Tolan and Ralph Metcalfe came from far back to gain place position.

These glittering athletes hook up in the final and a new world's record may be rung up before the ultimate victor can gain the laurels. No man ran Friday with all the speed of which he is capable. But they will be turning on the heat this afternoon and sensational performances must be the result.

The surprising thing about the times made Friday is that all were turned in under adverse conditions. Every one of the sprints was against a strong wind and in a track that was dry but not fast.

The 200 meters wherein Metcalfe, Hector Dyer and Bob Kiesel, winners of their heats Friday hook up in the finals, should be a classic struggle. Each man's work with ease. The time was remarkable and still neither under pressure. What they will do today when it is a case of one-two-three off the Olympic squad should make history.

HURDLES TOUGH

The 110 meter hurdle promises titanic deeds. Jack Keller, Percy

Swim Suits with a Snap

There'll be lots of rubbering going on along the beaches when these new bathing suits make their appearance. They are the latest innovation in the wardrobe of the well-dressed mermaid and are made of soft, silky rubber. Miriam Saner (left) and Dorothy Ford, the first water nymphs to adopt the new style, are shown at Virginia Beach, Va. They assert that the rubber suit allows much more freedom of action while swimming and are much cooler.

Beard, George Salung—these are among the eligibles. Each shatter a record and it would be no great surprise if all three reduced the existing figures in the duel.

Weight men, high jumpers and pole vaulters will be shooting at the mark. Leo Sexton, who made 52 feet 8 inches—a new world's record—in the shot put, is aiming for 53 feet and might accomplish the "impossible" feat.

Willis Ward and George Spitz will wage a royal battle for the high jump championship. Spitz seems to have the edge over his negro rival and Spitz will be trying for 6 feet 9, which would be a new world's mark.

WARNEKA AGAIN

NEW YORK, July 16.—An umpire with a wet towel around his head to keep off the heat inspired the Chicago Cubs to more antics than a night in a Turkish bath and when they pulled the plug the Brooklyn Dodgers were dripping wet on the short end of a 3 to 3 score.

Lonnie Warneke pitched like the steady flow of an ice-cold shower after a slow start and Hornsby, Herman, Cuyler and Grinn each drew two hits off a trio of ineffective Dodger hurlers. It was Warneke's 13th win.

Al Simmons hit three homers and a double but Krause, the A's hurler, was weak when he needed strength and Detroit took it, 11 to 10 in the 11th inning.

Wes Ferrell, Cleveland's truly great pitcher, was knocked out of the box in the fourth inning by the New York Yankees, who won 8 to 5. Vernon Gomez pitched good ball and astounded with two hits.

Brilliant work by the veteran Kremer, who gave only three hits, returned Pittsburgh a 1 to 0 triumph over the Boston Braves.

Although outthit and outpitched, smart fielding prevailed for the Phillies as they turned back the Cincy Reds 4 to 3 in 12 innings.

Homers by Lindstrom and Ott which drove in five runs helped the New York Giants hang up a 12 to 4 verdict over St. Louis.

Singles from Appling and Funk and a triple by Hayes furnished the Chicago White Sox a 4 to 2 topping of the Boston Hose in 11 innings.

Six runs in the first inning were too much for the St. Louis Browns to overcome and the Senators won their seventh straight, 8 to 7.

PORTAGE COUNTRY CLUB. AKRON, July 16.—Two youths, one a veteran of some repute trying for his second title, the other a youngster scarcely out of his knee pants, went into battle on the Portage course today in the finals of the 1932 Ohio Amateur golf championship.

The principals for the 36-hole final were Johnny Florio, star of the Wyandot club, in Columbus who held the amateur crown in 1929 and 17-year-old Bobby Servis, Dayton, present Ohio inter-scholastic champion.

In winning their way to the finals, the two stars were forced to put aside the best of Ohio's amateur calibre in four days of preliminary rounds. A total of 137 golfers started the competition last Tuesday.

little difficulty in sending the measure to the White House. Other issues, however, offered fields for dissension that might upset plans for adjournment.

The Home Loan Bank bill with its currency expansion riders was still to be acted upon finally. The House situation was cleared by the unexpectedly strong defeat of the Glass and Goldborough expansion proposals.

Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican leader and author of the bank measure, was making a hard fight to obtain a complete agreement. The bill is the last of the big financial relief proposals of the administration.

WOULD CUT RATE. The senate had before it a house resolution reducing the rate of interest on World War veterans' bonus loans to three and a half per cent, and eliminating the provision that certificates must be held two years before loans could be made.

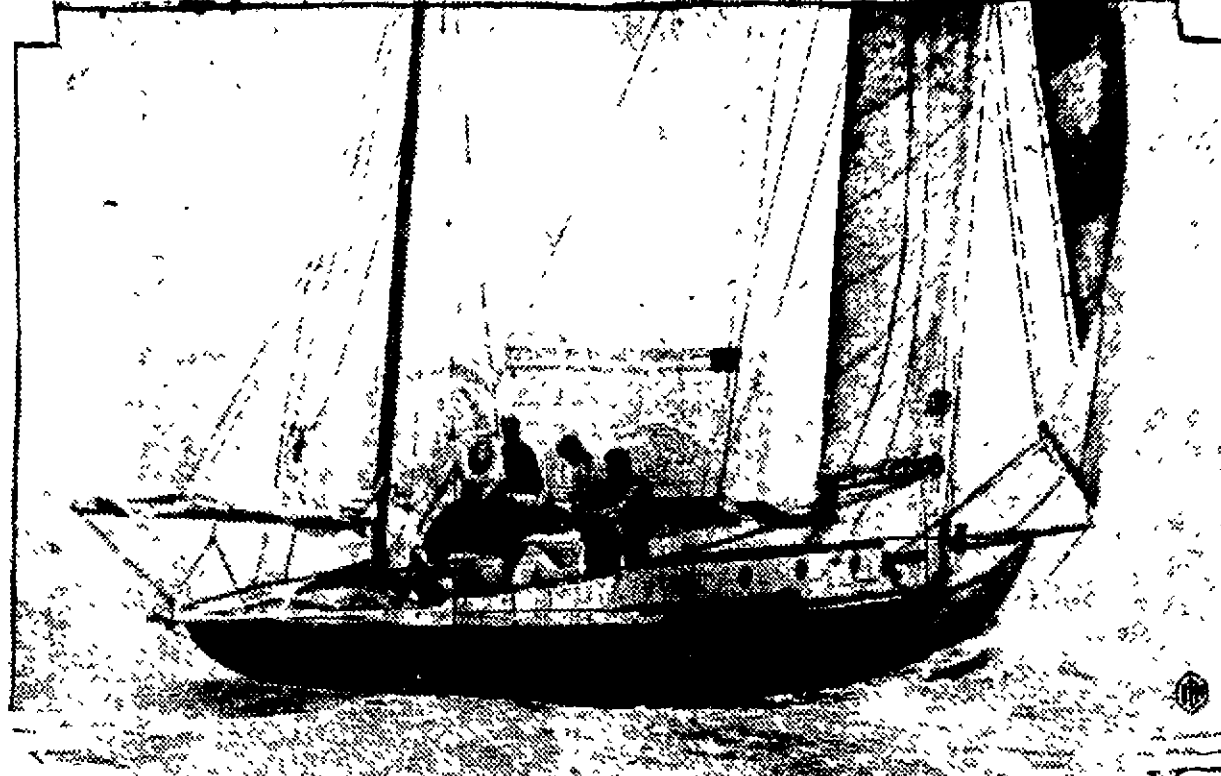

The measure would permit about 200,000 veterans to obtain immediate loans to half the value of their bonus certificates and save millions in the interest charge on loans already made.

The house had pending a senate resolution authorizing the banking committee to obtain income tax returns for use in its stock market investigation. This authority was demanded for the committee and investigators, who will work during the summer to complete the inquiry into the 1929 stock market crash, short selling and methods of high finance during the speculative boom.

Investigations intimate they had disbursed income tax funds.

case when a hearing was held last December, flatly denied ever receiving any hints of bribery, and defended himself for the action taken in refusing extradition of Licavoli to Michigan.

He willingly admitted signing the decision—called by McCrea "the most valuable paper you ever saw"—and declared the action was taken only after Governor White and Finance Director Howard L. Bevis, the governor's adviser on legal matters, ordered such a step.

Dunkle also attempted to exonerate from all suspicion a former clerk in the governor's office who was dismissed a few months ago in an economy order.

"Governor White," in the words of the prosecutor, "did not hear of the case until it was all over, and then he fired the clerk."

The clerk discharged as an expense-cutting move was the only one "fired" since the Licavoli case, and he never handled any extradition cases, Dunkle asserted.

Declaring all proceedings were "open and above board," Dunkle said the case was first presented to his attention early in 1931 when an attempt was made to extradite Licavoli from Toledo to Michigan to face charges of the murder of Henry Tapaney two years ago.

REQUESTED HEARING. Licavoli's attorneys requested a hearing, which was held Dec. 10. Testimony was presented to show that Licavoli was in Toledo the day of the slaying. Four witnesses supported the defense argument. Dunkle said he later joined McCrea and other Michigan officials in questioning Licavoli who was held in a Toledo jail.

Conferences were meanwhile held with Governor White and Bevis by Dunkle. At the request of McCrea, Dunkle said, the governor left the case open for further testimony. In April, however, defense attorneys requested that a decision be made, with the result that Governor White ordered the case closed on May 31.

Licavoli recently was arrested at the Ohio-Michigan line. His attorneys said he was "kidnaped" and illegally taken into custody.

CAMP PERRY, July 16.—Declaring he has "no apology" to make for the way the case was handled, Governor George White today promised a personal probe into charges of a Michigan prosecuting attorney that $30,000 changed hands when Ohio refused to extradite James Licavoli to Detroit six months ago.

Reached at the National Guard training camp where he is conducting an inspection, the Governor said he was confident of the reliability of S. P. Dunkle, his executive secretary, who was mentioned in the charges made by Assistant Prosecutor Duncan McCrea at Detroit.

Governor White declared the charges were "ridiculous" and said he believed "Ohio acted right in the case."

"Thirty thousand dollars is a lot of money and I certainly would like to know what the prosecutor means by his statement," White said. "I shall endeavor to find out."

White said his secretary always

Much campaigning will be done by airplane. "I don't know how to drive an automobile or put foot on a train," Ingalls said here yesterday.

The Ingalls personality, counted by Republicans as one of their leading campaign assets, will be exhibited at dozens of county fairs in speeches now being arranged by Johnson.

ROMANCE CAUSES TRAGEDY. MORRISTOWN, Tenn.—Tragedy trod on the heels of romance when fathers clashed with shot-guns after their sons had fought over a girl. William M. Raines, 40, was killed. TO BE TAKEN AT FACE VALUE

When you pick up this newspaper and read the announcements of this city's local merchants, or those of national advertisers, you need never think to question the sincerity and honesty of their statement.

This reliance on Advertising has been brought about by Advertising, and is one of Advertising's greatest contributions to the satisfaction and ease of modern living.

An advertiser deliberately attempting to deceive takes the quick, short road to ruin. The insincere or extravagant statement may have its brief day. But the greater the attention it attracts, the sooner the public will discover and destroy its deceit.

The cornerstone of successful shopkeeping always has been "keep faith with the public;" give honest values and truthfully represent the merchandise and its service. This principle had to find its expression in Advertising—for Advertising is nothing more than the owner of a store or a factory talking with people in their homes about such things as shoes and soap, radios and rugs, blankets and bloomers.

It pays to read the advertisements. They are first-hand news of what is being invented, fashioned and perfected in the workshops of the world for your well-being, comfort and convenience.

THE PASSOVER

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 11:1-12:36. GOLDEN TEXT—Purge out therefore the old leaven, that ye may be a new lump, as ye are unleavened. For even Christ our passover is sacrificed for us.—1 Corinthians 5:7.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God Saving His People.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The First Passover.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Memorial Feast.

TOPIC FOR YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULTS—Liberator and Lawgiver.

1. The Passover Instituted (vv. 1-28).

1. The date (v. 2). With the institution of the Passover came a change in the order of time. The common year was rolling on as usual, but with reference to God's chosen people, the order was interrupted and everything was made to date from this event. The time of one's salvation is the real beginning of time and life for the one redeemed.

2. The lamb set apart (vv. 3-5). This lamb must be a male without blemish, indicating that it must be both representative and perfect.

3. The lamb was killed by the whole congregation (v. 6). This shows that it was not for the individual only, but for the entire assembly. The setting apart of the lamb was not sufficient—it must be killed, for "without the shedding of blood there is no remission of sins."

4. The blood of the slain lamb was to be placed upon the side posts and lintels of the door (v. 7). When the destroying angel went through the land he passed over the houses where the door posts were sprinkled with blood (v. 33). The blood on the posts and lintels was the ground of peace.

5. Israel feeding upon the lamb (vv. 8-10). This denotes fellowship. Judgment preceded feasting. The lamb roasted signified the action of fire in God's judgment at the cross. The head, the legs, and the purtenance thereof show that in the substitutionary sacrifice the understanding, the walk, and all that pertains thereto are involved. This shows that the atonement of Jesus Christ involved his obedience to law as well as his suffering in the stead of his own.

6. The eating of unleavened bread signifies that no sin can enter into fellowship with Christ. Leaven signifies corruption (1 Cor. 5:7, 8). The bitter herbs suggest the bitterness of Christ's sufferings. His sufferings were not mainly physical, but moral and spiritual.

7. They ate the passover ready for action (v. 11). They went forth with a staff in hand; shoes on their feet, and with girded loins. The girding of the loins betokened separation from sin and preparation and readiness for service. The fact of being so girded indicated their willingness and readiness to march out of Egypt. The staff in hand indicated their nature as pilgrims, leaning upon a support outside of themselves. They were to leave behind them the place of death and darkness and march to the promised land.

8. The uncircumcised denied participation in the feast (vv. 43-49). Circumcision was typical of regeneration. The significance of the requirement is that only those who have become new creatures by the power of the cross have a right to sit at the Passover feast. Only the regenerated have fellowship with Christ.

9. The significance of the Passover (vv. 24-28).

It was a memorial institution calling to mind the deliverance of the Israelites from Egyptian bondage.

SYNOPSIS

Lily Lou Lansing, young and pretty telephone operator, gives up her opportunity for an operatic career to marry wealthy Ken Sargent. Ken's mother wanted him to marry the socially prominent Peggy Sage and threatens to have the marriage annulled. Ken and Lily Lou are stranded, but she assures him she will stick by him regardless of what happens. Ken loses his position with his father but secures a better one. The young couple take a small apartment and are ideally happy. Then, one night, Lily Lou awakens to hear Ken sobbing. Next day, Lily Lou meets Peggy Sage, and is stunned to learn from her that Ken lost his job. Later, she is relieved when Ken explains he did not take her into his confidence because he wanted her to be proud of him. After Ken leaves the next morning, his father visits Lily Lou.

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

"You and I will have no trouble understanding each other, I can see that," he said finally. "You come to the point. Very well, so do I."

Lily Lou gripped the sides of her chair. She knew what he was going to say. She was afraid.

"I want you to let my son go," she gulped. "I'm not keeping him!"

Her chin began to quiver. She got up and went to the window, pretending to adjust the shade.

"I thought we were going to keep to the point," the man said patiently.

"That is the point. He won't leave me!" She wheeled on him, flaming with anger, and sudden, happy pride. "You know it. Otherwise you wouldn't have come to me. That's true. You know it's true!"

"Of course it is true. The boy isn't a cad."

"No—and you're trying to make him one! Yes, you are! You are!"

"Please," he said gently, "sit down. I didn't come here to quarrel with you."

"No—just to throw me out of Ken's life. Because you—YOU have got other plans for it! Why do you interfere? He knows what he wants. He wants to get away from offices, to work with ships. He doesn't care for money and all that, and I don't either. You can take all your old money and throw it in the day for all Ken cares. He had such wonderful ideas for the South American trade. He was trying to amount to something as himself—not just your son. Do you realize what that means to him? To be himself? Must he be nothing but your son all his life? Oh, why don't you stay out of it—let him do as he wants to? Even if it's all wrong? It's HIS life? You think I'm going to spoil it. Well—what's it to you? Can't he spoil it if he wants to? Oh, you... you make me so mad..."

He didn't smile. He waited, nodding his head gravely.

"You'd better go home," she said, unsteadily. "I'm all upset, and I'm going to say something I'll be sorry for, and I don't want to, because you ARE Ken's father, and I guess you love him, in your own way."

"We both love him," he agreed. "But he didn't live. He sat immovable, his great frame erect in the armchair. 'And I dare say we've both interfered. He's only a boy, while you...' he smiled a little, 'are a woman in character and experience. I can talk to you as an equal—something I couldn't do with Ken...'

"You feel that way because you're his father," she cut in, determined that he shouldn't flatter her. "All fathers feel that way. Mine does about me."

"Perhaps. But in my case I'm

"I want you to let my son go," he said.

afraid it is justified. I'm going to tell you something. Ken isn't strong. He's weak. He never finished a thing in his life. He never really finished high school. He was lazy. He went to sea, he didn't finish that, he came back licked."

"You can't turn me against Ken!"

"I'm not trying to. My dear girl, he's my son. My only child. I'd give him my life, if it would help him. I believe in him, too. I think that some day he will be a man to be proud of, but he isn't now—he isn't now..."

A stifled sob from Lily Lou.

"When you came into Ken's life, he was for the first time in his life doing well. Perhaps he told you he didn't like the work. Very well. We must all do things we don't like. But he was learning something. He was laying the foundation of a career, a great career. He likes ships. Some day he will own ships... the greatest line in these United States, if plans I have materialize. Captain Sage and I—"

Captain Sage... She saw him sitting in a big office, with Ken's father, somewhere. These two, with their grey heads together, planning... And she saw Peggy, too... Peggy with her duff of gilt hair, her hawk nose, like her father's, her bright brown eyes...

"Can't you and Captain Sage plan without Ken?"

She flushed under his hard, direct gaze. Could he know how she felt about Peggy? Did he guess... could he know about Ken still being her? For the first time she began to falter... She could fight for Ken, but if Ken didn't want her... if all the time it was Peggy he wanted...

Ken's father was talking again. "When he's ready for it, Ken will have all the power he wants, all the ships, too. He has ideas. If I can make him buckle down and study, he will realize all his dreams some day. Now this South American business... But my dear girl, he doesn't know any more about conditions than we ship owners and our patrons the shippers have to face, than any other lad who has made one trip down south... can't you their plans for the coming week. Those born during the second week of April and October, would do well to exercise restraint, avoid making new moves and rest up for tomorrow.

Children born on this date are of a quiet, reserved nature, but likely to have their own way among their playmates. Usually of a disposition, yet they can be sharp and sarcastic at times. When grown, many of them will be interested in reform movements and philanthropic schemes.

Efficiency, Happiness and Length of Life of an Individual Depend Largely on the Food He Sends to the Laboratory From Which His Body Derives Strength.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

An individual's destiny, his happiness, efficiency and even his span of life may be dependent on the condition and action of his intestines. The walls of the intestine contain muscles which contract, pushing the contents forward. When these muscles become weakened, constipation is the result.

Dr. Copeland says that the food we eat is transformed into products suited to the needs of the body. The lower portion, known as the large intestine, or colon, acts mainly as an avenue of escape for waste matter. Prompt and complete elimination of this waste matter is most important. Good health demands it.

The walls of the intestine contain muscles which contract, pushing the contents forward. When these muscles become weakened, constipation is the result. If the character of the food offers insufficient stimulation to the bowel, or if some of the digestive juices are not of proper composition, waste matter accumulates in the colon and there becomes hardened from the absorption of the water constituents; then "auto-intoxication," with all its train of

Theatres

AT THE CLIFTONA
One of the most famous novels about youth and Hollywood, Harry Leon Wilson's story of the country lad who crashed the studio gates and made good—will be seen as a talkie, "Make Me a Star," at the Cliftona Theatre on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday next, with Joan Blondell, Stuart Erwin, ZaSu Pitts and Ben Turpin handling the cast.

Critics have said that it is the dominating comedy-with-a-heart-tug in this story that gave it its international popularity. Paramount has faithfully transplanted the essence of the book into one of the most human, most entertaining pictures Stuart Erwin has ever done—and the producers have wisely cast him as the leading man, the ambitious, blundering youth about whom the story revolves.

The action opens in a small town in Illinois where Erwin, a brow-beaten and held in contempt by almost everyone in the community because of his highfalutin ideas.

AT THE GRAND
Can a man choose between friendship and duty to country? Such a perplexing dilemma confronts Victor Varconi, featured player in Universal's latest war drama, "The Doomed Battalion," hailed as someone's most brilliant achievement in realism since "All Quiet on the Western Front." "The Doomed Battalion" opens an engagement Sunday at the Grand Theatre.

The gripping story concerns the deep friendship of an Italian gentleman and his Austrian mountain guide, welded by dangers shared in scaling together the precipitous peaks of the Tyrol. War intervenes to pit them against each other in a struggle to possess a strategic Alpine peak, and military orders force them to plot for each other's destruction. Situations result where suspense runs high and action brings a series of exciting episodes to a crisis which is said to hold the audience spellbound. There are scenes of rushing Alpine avalanches sweeping to destruction, and the dynamiting of a mountain provides one of the most tremendous spectacles yet filmed.

Tala Birell, the exotic, star, plays the leading feminine role.

Public Opinion

PUBLIC opinion makes virtue. To say that men are righteous because they fear God is to express but half of the truth; they fear God because public opinion of their time and place insists that they fear God. Public opinion trains man's conscience and provides his standards, and he is a rare man who is more respectable than the standards of his environment.

When the Mississippi and the Ohio were the frontier of America, muscle was the gauge of manhood and of excellence. If a man stood high in the community, he was a wonder in a rough-and-tumble fight. Incidentally, he used his teeth and hoofs. In that day men drank heavily; joyously engaged in brawls; boasted of their toughness; were proud of their freedom from the deccencies.

Times changed. Frontiers vanished. The roughnecks were hanged. Public opinion established industry, thrift and honesty as standards. Money and learning became of more worth than muscle. Public opinion looked sternly on the new generation and said: "Be decent; no rough stuff will be tolerated."

In this day and age no man can long defy public opinion. It becomes more difficult daily for the individual to "get away" with murder once public opinion is crystallized against a person or thing, something happens. And it should be said, in conclusion, that public opinion is not always fair and just.

A Self-Test

ALBERT HUBBARD—gave the following self-test, to be taken on the turn of the year, and it would seem to be applicable to every serious-minded person just now.

Take an inventory of your spiritual assets. How do you stand on these? Mark yourself 10 where you are, and see how it looks.

Faith, system, service, loyalty, purpose, kindness, economy, industry, courtesy, initiative, intention, frankness, evolution, education, fellowship, patience, courage, responsiveness, tenacity, ambition, harmony, prudence, integrity, obedience, thoroughness, mutuality, mastership, fraternity, endurance, enthusiasm, equanimity, good cheer, reciprocity, cleanliness, helpfulness, practicality, self-control, orderliness, cooperation, self-reliance, trustfulness, self-sacrifice, perseverance, individuality, concentration.

Never mind anything more—line these up, put down your quotations, draw a line, foot-up, and divide by the number of factors, 47, and see what your average is. Then you will perhaps know where you stand for the new year.

If it comes out right, you can agree with Robert Louis Stevenson, who said: "I know what pleasure is, for I have done good work."

A man who does good work does not have to talk, apologize and explain—his work speaks.

The Nonadvertiser

THE nonadvertiser and the experimenter have a hard time. They are out of luck. They try to run a business of some sort on mere chance, and chance is a poor partner.

This town—any town—has seen them come and go like butterflies that come in late in the spring and go out early in the fall. They are summer visitors. They belong to the tourist class of business men. A short, fitful spell and then like Longfellow's fleeting cares: "They fold their tents like the Arabs And as silently steal away."

They seem to say to the public: "Our goods are here and here we are to sell them;" only they don't say it to the public so that they are heard, nor does the public see it in print. The nonadvertiser only imagines things.

If they would let the local newspaper tell it to the public all would be very different, and after a while the transient store would very likely become a permanent concern.

PRIZE-WINNING STORY

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — Charles H. Emmons of Chippa park, several miles west of Colorado Springs, has a pet trout who delights in having his back scratched. The trout, Mike, a three pound rainbow, permits himself to be picked up, handled and caressed so long as he is not lifted above the surface of the water.

PROSPERITY NOTE

FORT MORGAN, Colo. — Residents of Fort Morgan, received a real prosperity note recently from City Superintendent George Cox, who notified the taxpayers that municipal assets exceeded liabilities by $15.7 per capita. Accumulation of the surplus was due entirely to the earnings of the municipal water and power plant.

CHICAGO, July 16.—The first prolonged heat wave of the summer was receding today after exacting an estimated toll of 28 lives in affected areas during the past 24 hours.

In Chicago the three-day heat spell was abruptly ended last night by a heavy rain and a sudden electrical storm which killed one man and injured four others.

ATHLETE KILLED

A bolt of lightning brought a swift and tragic ending to a neighborhood baseball game between married men and single men, the bolt struck a set of bedsprings which served as a catcher's backstop. Michael Becker, 40, fell dead and four of his fellow players were hurled to the ground injured.

The injured men were rushed to a hospital.

Becker's death brought Chicago's list of fatalities for the day, attributed to the humid weather, to nine. Six died from prostration, two were drowned.

Reports of death due to the heat came from widely scattered points east of the Rocky mountains. In many regions the mercury yesterday climbed to 100 degrees or more. The day's highest temperature was 105 at Mattoon, Ill.

'Too Smart' Gangster's Nemesis Devotee of Mountie Tradition

Young Sleuth Who Out-Shot "Fats" McCarthy Has Been Shot on Three Occasions, But Always Got His Man. When "Target" Gets Sharpshooter—That's News.

SCENE of MCCARTHY GUN BATTLE

In sharp contrast to the career of "Fats" McCarthy, New York gang leader who came to the inevitable end of a life of crime when he died with a police bullet in his heart at Albany, N. Y., is that of the young police hero who tracked him down and killed him in a pistol duel to the death. Detective Harry Moore, although only on the police force since 1924, has already been shot on three occasions while rounding up bad men. But each time he succeeded in capturing the man who shot him. When he stopped the first gang bullet, back in 1926, he was carried into the French Hospital, New York, more dead than alive. But Cupid pulled him back from the brink of the grave. He fell in love with his nurse, Helen Morgan, with the result that she is now Mrs. Moore. The young sleuth was assigned the task of bringing in McCarthy after the gangster had slain Detective Guido Possagno, last October. McCarthy was also under suspicion for the Harlem baby massacre last summer. Moore stuck tenaciously to the trail of the gang leader, who boasted he was "too smart to be taken by a dumb cop," for ten months until he cornered him at Albany. In the ensuing gun battle Moore was wounded three times, but he succeeded in planting a bullet in McCarthy's heart. Mrs. Jean McCarthy, the badman's wife, was wounded in the fight and she and several of the trapped gang surrendered and were taken in custody.

BEHIND the SCENE In HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD.—Her's one to stir memories—Universal has just bought the talkie rights to "The Perils of Pauline," one of the most famous serials of the early days of the movies.

With Pearl White as its star, this chapter—film threw many a chill into motion picture audiences of 1914. They saw it in 20 episodes whereas the modern serial is from 10 to 12.

You'll recall some of the better known contemporaries of "The Perils of Pauline." There was "The Million Dollar Mystery," which preceded it and which starred Lottie Pickford and James Cruze. There was "The Adventures of Kathryn" with Kathryn Williams.

In those days the serial may have occupied a more important position in the film world, but it still is a big money maker. Last year Universal made four episode thrillers. This year it will produce five, and Carl Laemmle, Jr., already is planning on equal number for next year. "The Perils of Pauline" will be one of these. To date no star is selected to succeed Joan White. Henry MacRae, who has supervised more than 10 serials, will produce the new version.

Jimme Quirk relates an amusing story of how one Hollywood bore got squelched. It seems that the annoying fellow, he's an actor, managed to corner Sidney Fox at a party the other evening. "By the way," he said finally, "who's driving you home?"

Newest youthful team in the Sidney fixed him with a glare. "You are," she snapped.

Irene Dunne can't decide whether to sign again at RKO and play her scheduled role in "Animal Kingdom" or to become a free lance and accept Paramount's offer to play George M. Cohan's lead in "The Phantom President."

That trouble on the Cohan story came to a head with the result that Supervisor Herman Manikewicz tendered his resignation. It was accepted. Barney Glazer will supplant him.

Scenarists at Fox are eyeing Frank Craven askance. He did a script in three days and it was accepted. Now it's Charles Starrett who is taking a rest for the Indian hero in "Laughing Boy." Universal officials are going around with tears in their eyes over this one. Rumor has it, Dick Arlen may not be compelled to play in "Hot Saturday" if he doesn't want to. Any day Lila Lee wants to go to England, she can have a contract with British Ltd. Productions. With three pictures behind her since recent comeback, and another to come Lila probably will stay here.

The Frank Borzages invited guests to wear chef's hats and aprons to their steak-fry over the week-end. Apparently no fear here of too many cooks. Lewis Milestone is hobbling these days on a sprained ankle. In preparation for the opening of "Strange Interlude" next Friday, Clarke Gable has gone to the desert for a rest.

talkies will be Frances Dee and Gene Raymond. Assigned to play together in "The Night of June 13," they will be co-featured later on in "11th Avenue," which, as you've already guessed, is a story of New York. It's an original by William Slavens McNutt and will be directed by Stephen Roberts, one of the fair-haired boys at Paramount these days. He's responsible for "Lady and Gent," the last George Bancroft picture, and the only one which has clicked in so very long.

An airplane brought Kay Francis and Kenneth MacKenna into Los Angeles yesterday. They are missing their European trip, but both have picture engagements, she with Ernest Lubitsch and he with Tiffany in "Those We Love." That is, if the scrip reads as well as it listened in synopsis. Providing the deal goes through, this will be Mac Kenna's first acting assignment in a year. He tried directing for a while, but found it disappointing.
